Holiday gasoline prices remain low, motorists should fill up early

Gasoline prices in Mississippi over the Christmas/New Year's holiday period have dropped three-tenths of a cent since November 28th to an average price of $1.290, but motorists may have difficulty in finding gasoline on Christmas and New Year's Day, AAA reports.

Gasoline prices will be 1.1 cents higher than the same period last year. The United States gasoline price average this Christmas/New Year's holiday is $1.258.

Seventy service stations across the state were surveyed by AAA Mississippi for the Christmas/New Year's holiday report. Sixty-nine percent of those surveyed indicated they will be closed Christmas and

New Year's Day.

The highest gasoline prices in Mississippi are in the Brookhaven, Natchez, Vicksburg areas with an average price per gallon of $1.305. The Columbus, Kosciusko, and Meridian areas had the lowest price of $1.268. The highest gasoline price in the nation is in North Dakota with an average price per gallon of $1.313. New Jersey had the lowest price at $1.140.

AAA Mississippi reminds motorists planning trips over the busy holiday that they should not drive long distances without making frequent stops, and that drivers should make non-alcoholic beverages their choice of drink.

Making cane syrup, the old way

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

A nostalgic trip back to the "old days" can be as close as a visit to the Henley brother's cane mill just north of Kiln.

Operated jointly by Michael and Charles Henley, the mill is one of the few left which still uses horses to turn the mill.

Michael Henley said that visitors come by to watch the syrup-making process almost every time the mill is in operation.

"Word gets around about how we are doing it and people want to bring their children and grandchildren to see how syrup was made in the old days," he added.

"We're glad to have people come by and welcome visitors at any time to watch," he said.

This is the Henley's second year to make syrup the old-fashioned way. They credit Liege Lee of Pearllington with teaching them how to make the syrup.

Henley said running the cane mill and making syrup is a hobby.

"It is not a big profitable situation, just something I enjoy," he said.

"I really like doing things the old time way," Henley added.

Henley says his appreciation of doing things the old way comes from spending a lot of time with his grandfather Sylvan Moran, who drove a horse and wagon until his death in 1972.

Although it is actually late in the year to be making the syrup, Henley said there is an advantage in not being surrounded by bees.

During the warm weather when syrup is being made the bees just make their home here, he added.

MAKING THE SYRUP

The first step in the process is to put the sugar cane through the mill to extract the juice.

Henley said it generally takes "two good wagon loads" of cane to get enough juice to begin cooking the syrup.

Surrounded on one side by sugar cane waiting to be put in and by the flattened cane on the other side, the mill is topped with a 30 foot pole which is attached to the horse to provide power.

"How fast you get the juice depends on how fast the horse goes and we have some pretty fast horses around here," Henley said.

He added that it usually takes two to three hours of grinding the sugar cane to get the 80 gallons of juice which is needed for a "cooking."

At the Henley farm, the juice runs from the mill into a 50 gallon drum covered with a burlap sack that serves as strainer.

The cane juice is then poured into the cooker which is a large shallow pan about five feet long and four feet wide.

Heat for the cooker is provided by wood placed in the furnace beneath the pan. Henley said he tried using butane to cook the syrup but it just didn't work as well as wood.

During the next five to six hours, the 80 gallons of juice will "cook down" to about 10 gallons of syrup. Next the syrup is packaged in half-gallon tins for distribution.

The Henley-produced syrup will not be found in any grocery stores, he said but he does sell it to his friends.

Henley added that usually during the season they cook syrup 10-15 times and still have several cookings to do this year.

Bay council to seek grant funds for loan to Baldwin Aircraft

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council voted Tuesday to begin the process of applying for a $1 million grant which would be loaned to Baldwin Aircraft Company.

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz told the council that no final decision would have to be made until Jan. 31, but there were a lot of details to be worked out.

The Urban Development Action Grants are given to municipalities when there is proof that the funds will be used to create a number of new jobs, he said.

The funds would actually be given to the city, which would loan them to Baldwin Aircraft for the construction of the aircraft production facility at Stennis.

Baldwin would then repay the funds to the city over a specified number of years. Both the principal and interest earned would then be set up in a special account and used for public works improvements in the city, targeted for low to moderate income areas.

"It sounds almost too good to be true, but there is a lot of competition for the grants," Frankiewicz added.

There is nationwide competition for the $350 million appropriated for the grants, he said.

In addition to the loan of the money at a low interest rate to Baldwin, another advantage to the aircraft company in acquiring these funds would be qualifying the company for up to $10 million interest-free industrial revenue funds, Frankiewicz said.

There will need to be two public hearings before the city submits the application, he said.

The board authorized Frankiewicz to begin working out details on the project.

HMC contractor sues

By DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has been named a defendant in a lawsuit filed against a contractor and an architectural-engineering firm working on Hancock Medical Center.

The suit was filed in Hancock County Circuit Court by Bond Paving Company of Gulfport, which is being represented by the Wiggins law firm of Parsons and Matthews. Defendants in addition to the board include Claude Hogan and Buck's Incorporated, the contractor for the project; and Gresham, Smith and Partners, a Florida-based firm supplying the architectural and engineering services.

The suit alleges that Bond Paving, after having been listed as a subcontractor for site work and paving for Hancock Medical Center, was dropped from the project and replaced with Artiques Construction.

Bond asks for a declaratory judgment concerning whether or not the contractor could, under the provisions of the contract with the county, drop the paving firm from the project.

The suit alleges "that the defendants ... have presently breached the contract for the construction of Hancock Medical Center."

Bond also alleged "that the plaintiff, Bond Paving Company, is entitled to proceed to perform the subcontract work of site work and paving pursuant to the contract entered into between the defendants."

The suit states that Bond contends the contract was breached because "no written approval of the owner (the Hancock County Board of Supervisors) was secured by the contractor, as required by the contract documents."

"Further, no release was obtained from the listed subcontractor to perform the site work and paving, Bond Paving Company, in order that Artiques Construction Company might be substituted for Bond Paving Company."

The suit asked that Bond either be allowed to proceed with the subcontracted work or receive an unspecified monetary settlement.

Gex, Gex and Phillips has been hired to defend the county in the matter.

USM holiday schedule revised

University of Southern Mississippi offices will remain closed Jan. 2-3 in an effort to save about $20,000 in utility costs and some wages.

Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas, USM president, has announced the revised holiday closing schedule as a cost-saving step stemming from a state budget crunch, which has caused financial cutbacks at all public institutions of higher learning.

Dr. Tom Estes, USM vice-president for business and finance, said university offices will remain open through Dec. 20 as originally scheduled. They will reopen Monday, Jan. 6, instead of Jan. 2 as previously scheduled.

Estes said the additional two days of closing would save approximately $20,000 in utility costs and wages for hourly-paid staff personnel. About $15,000 of the savings would come from the university's general fund and another $5,000 would come from self-supporting auxiliary services such as the USM Bookstore.

USM dormitories will reopen Tuesday, Jan. 7, and registration for the spring semester will be conducted Jan. 7-10. Classes will begin Monday, Jan. 13.

CLEAN-UP RESUMES—A City of Waveland crew collects debris from the beachfront Monday near Coleman Avenue. Waveland is continuing the clean-up of marshgrass and other debris left behind by Hurricane Juan, which was temporarily discontinued in the Waveland area when county funds ran out. The city also plans to do some patching work on Beach Boulevard to make the road less hazardous to motorists while the board of supervisors considers a plan for permanent repairs. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Search committee voices concern, requests courtesy

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Several members of the committee appointed by the Bay St. Louis School Board to review applicants for the district superintendent's position Monday expressed their disapproval of the way a deadline was changed.

The committee members generally accepted the Feb. 1 deadline but voiced resentment that the school board had changed the date without notifying the committee.

"I have no objection to the date change...only that it was changed without at least three of the members being contacted," said James Ginn.

The school board officially voted at its recent meeting to change the date to allow board president Walter Turcotte to have a vote in the final selection.

Turcotte's second five-year term expires in March.

Committee member Clarence Harris said it appears that the school board already knows who it wants to fill the position.

"I know the board is the final authority and could disregard any recommendation by the committee, but I object to the attitude that we are a token committee," Harris added.

"I would rather not be here if that is the way it is," he said.

Committee chairman and board member Betty Diboll stated that as far as she was aware the school board has not selected whom they want as superintendent.

"I do not know whom I will vote for and have not been approached for anybody's vote," she said.

Diboll added that no one will know who will be superintendent till all the applications are in and at that time is there are no suitable applicants the board will take whatever time necessary to get a good superintendent.

"We will look at all the recommendations and select the person with the qualifications and dedication to work for this school system," she said.

Diboll added that she felt sorry for the person who will be selected to begin in the midst of all the turmoil.

"It is time we start pulling together, and quit pulling against each other," she said.

The committee next passed a resolution requesting the school board contact committee members before making a change in an established policy.

"I think the school board, of which I am a member, should extend that courtesy to the committee," said L. D. Carter.

The resolution passed unanimously.

Later in the meeting copies of six applications were distributed in an executive session.

Of the six applicants, only two are from the area and none are from the school system, said Betty Diboll, committee chairman and school board member.

Diboll will also be collecting applications during the holidays and distributing them to the committee members.

Blindness group urges caution in toy selection

Before Santa comes to town this holiday season, the National Society to Prevent Blindness, MS Affiliate, hopes he will have crossed unsafe toys off the request lists children from Mississippi have sent him.

According to the society, last year an estimated 5,035 children were treated in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related eye injuries. More than 80 percent of them were under age 15.

"Toy injuries can be prevented," says Marshall Bennett, president of the Mississippi Affiliate. "However, the gifts that Santa — and parents — leave under the tree this holiday should be carefully selected."

The society reminds that before making purchases, buyers inspect the toy and consider if it is appropriate for the child and his or her maturity level.

"Toys purchased for one child often find their way into the hands of younger, less adept children," Bennett says. "This can be especially hazardous."

The society also suggests that shoppers keep a lookout for these potential hazards:

—Check toys for any sharp, exposed edges, points, nails, screws and pins.

—Avoid projectile items, such as guns that shoot darts or cork.

—Examine dolls, stuffed animals and other cuddly toys for rigid interior frames that can poke through outside coverings.

—Check for loose parts that can become unattached, exposing sharp metal or plastic.

—Avoid toys that can shatter.

The society is especially concerned that parents and friends continue to purchase projectile non-toys for children. These include air and spring operated guns, slingshots, bows and arrows and darts. Last year, these items resulted in approximately 3,800 people suffering eye injuries that required hospital emergency room treatment.

"This year, keep the holiday spirits happy by only giving safe gifts and toys," says Bennett.

For further information on year-round children's eye safety, write for a copy of the society's free brochure, "Play It Safe," to: National Society to Prevent Blindness—MS Affiliate, 115 Broadmoor Drive, Jackson. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope with your request.

ETV Brief

TREASURE HOUSES

"Treasure Houses of Britain," a three-part series to air on ETV, will give television viewers access to some of Great Britain's most magnificent country homes of the 15th through the 19th centuries and to the treasures accumulated within their walls and the lives lived in them over the years.

The television series, which can be seen at 9 p.m., Mondays, beginning Dec. 16, on Mississippi ETV, coincides with the exhibition "The Treasure Houses of Britain: Five Hundred Years of Private Patronage and Art Collecting," which is on display at the East Building of the National Gallery of Art in Washington from Nov. 3, 1985, through March 16, 1986. Patrons of the exhibition are Prince Charles and Princess Diana, who visited the exhibition on their recent trip to the United States.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Christmas is less than one week away and many of us have not finished shopping.

Congratulations to those who have finished all of their shopping, we fit into the category of those who have not as yet finished.

We would like to remind everyone again about the importance of Shopping-At-Home.

Every dollar spent in Hancock County turns over so many times, and helps support our friends and neighbors.

Local stores have a wide variety of merchandise, and just about any kind of gift can be purchased in Hancock County.

Don't forget the Big Car Wash on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Hancock Bank US-90 Branch with proceeds going to the Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund.

The roster of persons conducting this benefit car wash is interesting, because it includes many city and county political leaders.

We are hoping there will be many folks with a lot of vehicles for the hard working political leaders to wash.

The Holiday Season is a time when many parties are held in our area.

Some folks have a tendency to possibly have a little too much to drink and should not be driving a vehicle.

We have talked with Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy, and Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn on Wednesday, and all three say they will make every effort to transport residents home from parties, all they have to do is give their respective department a call.

The police leaders all indicated they would much rather provide transportation for someone home from a party, than to have their departments investigate an accident involving someone drunk.

The telephone numbers are 467-5101, sheriff's department; 467-9221, Bay police; and 467-3669, Waveland police.

Enjoy yourself during the holidays, but please have a safe one too.

Commissioner opposes workmen's comp tax

Mississippi Workers' Compensation Commissioner Marshall Bennett today urged members of the Mississippi Congressional delegation to oppose federal tax proposals before Congress which would place new additional taxes on injured workers' compensation benefits.

In a letter to each of Mississippi's Senators and Congressmen, Bennett said:

"I am writing to advise you of my concern over the legislative proposal to tax workers' benefits."

"As one committed to the fair administration of workers' compensation in Mississippi, I feel you should know that representatives of business, labor, insurance, medical, attorneys and state government have expressed opposition to the effect federal tax reform would have on injured workers' benefits and the disruption to the settlement process in compensation disputes."

"The impact would reduce the average injured workers' benefits by approximately 14 percent and would require the Mississippi legislature to increase benefits about 16 percent in indemnity payments to restore the worker to pre-taxation benefits levels."

"Mississippi already has the lowest workers' compensation weekly benefits in the nation at a maximum of $133.00 per week. A further reduction in compensation benefits is brutally unfair to the employees when they most need their benefits and will increase costs to Mississippi employers in higher insurance premiums and ultimately increase the costs of goods and services to Mississippi consumers."

The inequity of taxation on injured workers' benefits is compounded when you consider that another person injured away from the job would pay no federal taxes on his tort recovery.

At a time of heavy burdens on the economy and deficits from the foreign trade imbalance, it is counter productive to increase the cost of doing business in our nation and state; but that is what the new tax will do.

"I urge you to oppose any new tax on workers' compensation disability benefits because these benefits are not income, but are only a small subsistence so injured workers do not become wards of the State."

"The taxation of workers' compensation payments has been prohibited by federal tax laws since 1918. It is difficult to imagine that any meaningful improvement in our taxing systems would be made through new additional tax on a worker who has lost an eye, leg, arm or who is paralyzed from a work-related injury."

son, Capt. James Clark, Sheila Thomas, coordinator; McGruff, the National Crime Dog, and Frank Koopman. Residents of Bay St. Louis interested in the formation of a Neighborhood Watch in their area can contact Capt. Clark at 467-9221. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Edwin Lloyd Pittman, Attorney General

HOLIDAY SHOPPING TIPS

Rights of Mail-Order Customers
According to Pittman, shopping by mail is a way to buy specialty items, without leaving your house. It's a way to find products that are hard to find in stores without wearing yourself out in the search.

Shopping by mail can also be thrifty when there is a discount for buying directly from the source. But the leisure and convenience you get with mail order sometimes can be offset by a long wait for your merchandise or by your disappointment when the item isn't what you wanted.

When your mail order merchandise arrives late or not at all, it may be of comfort to know that the Federal Trade Commission has a rule that gives you certain rights when you shop by mail. Under the rule:

—A mail-order company must send ordered goods within the time period specified in its ads or within 30 days if no shipping date is specified. The time requirements go into effect when the company has received a completed order. This means that the company has received the consumer's cash, check or money order, or charged a credit account, and that it has all the information needed to process and ship the order. Failure to specify essential information such as the size or color of an ordered item, would make the order incomplete.

—If the company cannot meet the shipping deadline, it must notify the consumer and provide the consumer with the option either to receive a prompt refund or to agree to a delay. The notice must include the new shipping date, instructions on how to cancel the order and a postage-paid means of reply.

—If the consumer agrees to a new shipping date, which the company is again unable to meet, the company must send a second notice as soon as possible. Unless the consumer signs and returns this postage-paid notice, the company must automatically cancel the order and issue a refund.

—If a company cannot ship on time and does not notify consumers as required, it must deem the order cancelled and issue a refund.

—If a consumer chooses to cancel an order, the company must refund the consumer's money within seven business days after receiving the consumer's request (for orders paid by cash, check or money order) or credit the account within one billing cycle (for orders paid by credit card).

The mail-order rule does not apply to everything ordered by mail. It excludes photo-finishing services, magazine subscriptions (after the first issue), cash-on-delivery orders, seeds and plants.

Pittman offers the following advice on making mail-order purchases:

—Note the shipping date specified in the ad. If no date is stated, the company is bound by the 30-day deadline for complete orders. Order early to allow plenty of time for shipment and delivery.

—Examine the company's return policy. If the ad does not tell what it is, call and inquire before you order.

—Read all product descriptions carefully and don't rely solely on pictures.

—If you have not dealt with a company before, check the firm's reputation with the Attorney General's Office and Consumer Protection.

—Keep a copy of the company's name, address and phone number. Also, the date of the order, the ad or catalog from which you ordered, the order form you sent to the company and cancelled checks or charge-account records.

If consumers experience mail-order problems, Pittman recommends that they first contact the company and attempt to resolve their problem. If that does not work, they should contact the Consumer Protection Division by calling 354-6018 or our toll free number 1-800-223-5615.

Loyalties of school board members misdirected

Dec. 16, 1985
Sea Coast Echo

To the Editor:

The Bay-Waveland Municipal School District will be under the direction of a new chief administrator in 1986. The responsibility for advertising, interviewing, and finally selecting this new superintendent is assigned, by law, to the trustees of our school district.

In this writer's opinion, this will be the most important educational decision made in this community in many years, and for many years to come. The person selected to serve in this capacity will be responsible, along with the school board, for the largest budget in the community, not to mention our most precious resource, our children.

It seems clear to most what our trustees are responsible for. However, recent action taken by the board reflects that they do not understand to whom they are responsible for their decisions.

I make reference to Trustee Diboll moving to have the cut-off date changed from March 1, as requested by the superintendent search committee, to Feb. 1, in an effort to allow Board President Walter Turcotte to vote on the new superintendent since he will be leaving office in early February.

This takes four valuable weeks away from the search committee in their efforts to properly compile a job description, advertise nationally, interview, and finally recommend a candidate to the board.

As if this were not bad enough in principle, the method in which it was handled is ethically questionable to say the least. I refer to Mrs. Diboll stating that she polled the board members rather than wait for the regularly scheduled meeting to deliberate and vote upon this issue.

It seemed to those present, that the only thing left for the board to do Monday evening was to announce the decision that had apparently been made prior to the meeting.

So it seems the board, led by Mrs. Diboll's misplaced loyalty, had penalized not only the search committee, but the public as well. Which gets us by to our original question—who is this board responsible to—the children, parents, and public it legally represents—or to each other?

The Bay-Waveland School Board owes the public another meeting to openly debate this issue—not polled on a telephone. Their opinions and strategies are our business. They should and must represent us, not each other!

Sincerely,
Dick Smith

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—State Democratic Chairman Steve Patterson sees a new role for the Democratic Party in Mississippi, as a "consensus-maker" on state governmental reform issues.

For years, the only domestic question on which the Mississippi Democratic Party made its position known was segregation, a system it helped to perpetuate in the state political process. Since segregation disappeared as a Democratic cause in the 1970s, there has been very little on which Mississippi Democrats could agree.

Starting early in 1986, Patterson has some definite plans to put the Mississippi Democratic Party on record for several key reforms, among them gubernatorial succession, constitutional revision, implementation of the 1982 Education Reform Act, and public integrity.

When the State Democratic Executive Committee meets in January, Patterson plans to yield his role as presiding officer in order to present and speak for three resolutions: one on constitutional reform, a second on gubernatorial succession (including the sitting governor) and a third on establishing a state white collar crime unit in the Attorney General's office.

Patterson is something of a buff on constitutional reform, having written his master's thesis 12 years ago on the state's four constitutions, and the need to revamp the 1890 constitution.

He is also currently a member of Gov. Bill Allain's constitutional commission.

With the current public interest in constitutional reform, Patterson believes the Democratic Party must get in the forefront of the movement to facilitate affirmative action in the Legislature.

"In my opinion," said Patterson, "the question is not whether the constitutional framework must be revised, but when. I believe the role of the Mississippi Democratic Party is to work with its membership to forge the consensus that constitutional reform is necessary and that is must occur now."

His stand for gubernatorial succession may encounter some opposition within this party, Patterson admits, "but I am willing to get out on a limb to make the office of governor stronger."

The 35-year-old state Democratic leader believes he is in a unique position to bring together the various elements of the party behind the governmental reforms because he has good rapport with the "George Wallace" wing of the party. Actually Patterson had come out of this Democratic faction, having first worked for gubernatorial candidate John Arthur Eaves, a Wallace disciple, in 1975.

His ties with the party progressives had come during the William Winter administration when Patterson was a Winter staffer. Although Patterson was untypical of the pin-stripe, button-down cadre of young Winterites, he proved his value as a link with the woolhats who were never keen on Winter.

Patterson also has some definite plans in 1986 to begin rebuilding the local democratic organization in every county of the state.

In last year's presidential and senatorial elections, the Democrats discovered they had lost numbers of county Democratic officeholders, at least in loyalty, to the Republicans.

Starting in January, Patterson will launch a round of county Democratic dinners, fashioned after Tennessee's "bean suppers," at which Democrats in the Volunteer state sit down and talk politics over a plate of navy beans.

The Mississippi version will be beans and turnip greens in every one of the 82 counties, at which state Democratic politicians will mix and mingle with local officials and Democratic party activists. Patterson expects to complete the swing through every county in 18 months.

Not only will the grass-roots Democratic dinners help restore the local party organizations, many of which are in disrepair, but they will also provide aspirants for statewide public office a chance to gain some valuable exposure.

Patterson is hopeful also that the county dinners will become a forum to push constitution reform and generate support for the goals of the 1982 Education Reform Act.

The 1986 plan of work for Mississippi Democrats involves a broad new approach to fundraising, an area where Democrats have never been able to challenge their Republican counterparts. One goal is to get 100 Democrats to contribute $1,000 each to the party Finance Council.

Surprisingly, the party already has 69 of the $1,000 a year donors.

Waveland zoning board to recommend variance

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Waveland Zoning Board approved one variance request for recommendation to the board of aldermen.

The variance, requested by Edward White Jr., consisted of allowing the required size for a side yard to be reduced to nine feet.

In addition, the board heard one request for information on the correct procedure for splitting three lots into two sections for construction of a second residence and driveway.
The board will meet again at 5 p.m. Jan. 27.

THREE WAVELAND residents, Mary Ladner, Larry and Brett Ladner, were injured Monday in a collision with a Waveland Patrol car at the intersection of Coleman Avenue with Bourgeois Street. All three were treated and released from Hancock General Hospital. (Photo by Bradley Bounds)

Police vehicles involved in two accidents this week

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Three Waveland resident sustained minor injuries in an accident Monday with a Waveland patrol car.

Driver Mary Ladner, 34, and passengers, Larry Ladner, 13 and Brett Ladner, 10, all of 1700 St. Joseph Street, were treated and released from Hancock General Hospital following the incident.

Ladner was driving a 1981 Datsun when her vehicle was struck by the patrol car driven by James Varnell, an officer for three years.

Chief Donald Dorn reported that Varnell's foot apparently slipped off the brake onto the accelerator.

Varnell was not injured in the accident.

Another passenger in the Ladner vehicle, Scott Hincks of 605 Old Spanish Trail, was also uninjured in the accident.

Also this week a Bay Police vehicle ran into a stop sign.

Chief Ray Murphy said Detective David Murtagh hit a stop sign when the brakes on his car failed.

Murphy said there was no significant damage to the car and no injuries.

Saucier was not reported injured. Diamondhead Rescue assisted the Mississippi Highway Patrol at the accident scene.

One hospitalized following crash

BY DENA BISNETTE

One person remained hospitalized Wednesday in connection with a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Hwys. 603 and 53.

State Trooper Curtis Newman said the accident occurred at about 11:15 a.m. when a northbound vehicle driven by George P. Saucier of Rt. 4, Pass Christian, collided with a pick-up truck driven by Stacy T. Ladner of Rt. 2, Poplarville.

Newman said the truck, which was headed south on Hwy. 53, was hit in the side and rolled over into a ditch.

"Saucier apparently failed to stop and was charged with running a stop sign," Newman said.

Ladner and a passenger in the pick-up, Brenda Ladner, were taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic Ambulance Service after the accident.

Stacy Ladner was treated and released and Brenda Ladner was transferred to Gulfport Memorial Hospital, where a hospital spokesman stated that she is listed in fair condition.

$5 million obligated for work at plant

In an ongoing contract with Mason Chamberlain Inc, the Department of Army obligated an additional $5 million for modifications the facility located at the National Space Technology Laboratories.

This is no new contract, just an obligation to provide additional funding for additional work at the plant, Capt. Aaron Cobb, plant executive officer said.

Cobb said he was unable to determine at this time if any additional jobs would be generated by the extra work.

Military Mention

AIRMAN GIBSON

Navy Airman Frank I. Gibson, a 1982 graduate of Bay Senior High School, has completed the Basic Avionics ("aviation electronics") Technician Course.

During the self-paced course at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Millington, Tenn., Gibson received instruction on the fundamentals of electronic circuitry and was introduced to the wide variety of electronic equipment items currently installed aboard Navy and Marine Corps aircraft.

He studied airborne radar, communication and computer equipment, along with the technical manuals, safety precautions and troubleshooting procedures used for maintaining each.

He joined the Navy in March 1985.

Pirates best Bulldogs, 68-62; suffer first loss to Stone County

Pass Christian behind the 34 point effort from Joel Hatcher defeated the Vancleave Bulldogs 68-62 Friday night in Pass Christian.

With the win the Pirates ran their record to 8-0 and set up an early conference showdown with Stone County Monday night at Stone.

Joel Hatcher and Charles Dubuison were lost for the Stone game because of injuries.

Stone County used a strong inside game and handed the Pirates their first loss of the season.

Pass, playing without the services of scoring ace Joel Hatcher and reserve center Charles Dubuison, stayed close for three quarters but could never match up with the Tomcats inside.

The final score was 65-48.

The team's next game is against Wheeler Class A power, in the Gulfport Holiday Classic Dec. 28.

SSC Eighth Grade ups record to 8-0

The Eighth Grade Rockchaws of Coach Chuck Genin continued their unbeaten ways with a convincing 43-27 win over the Pass Christian 8th Grade team in a game played Thursday evening in the old SSC gym.

The Ninth Grade Rocks lost another heartbreaker to the Pass 9th Grade squad by a score of 31-29.

In the preliminary Eighth Grade game, the Rocks jumped out to a 10-0 first quarter advantage and increased their lead to 28-6 at halftime.

For the sixth time in their 7-0 season record, every Eighth Grade team member got to lay in the game as SSC tacked on 14 more points in the third quarter to dominate the contest by a 40-12 margin.

Perhaps more encouraging than the score was the fact that all 15 Eighth Grade team members scored. Sean Sewell led the attack with 11 points, followed by Cedric Smith with 8 points, and Greg Schruft and Shannon Garrett with 7 points apiece.

For Pass Christian, Lashawn Ausmer contributed 10 points.

Coach Jerry Spell's Ninth Grade Rockchaws fell two points short as the difference was a 13-point second quarter surge by Pass High's Ninth Grade. For the second game in a row, a Rockchaw basket was disallowed as the official said the ball went under and not through the basket.

Pass High held a 10-point lead at halftime, 21-11, and the Rocks rallied to close the gap in the second half.

No one hit in double figures in the game. SSC's Bert Dean led all scorers with 9 points, followed by Jeff Battle's 8 points.

For the Pass, all five starters hit for at least six points, with Wayne Crockett leading the Pirates with 8 points.

Both the Eighth and Ninth Grade SSC teams resume action Monday as they travel to Carriere for games with Pearl River Central's Eighth and Ninth Grade teams. In their first outing against the Blue Devils, the SSC Eighth Grade won 47-18 while the Ninth Grade fell to PRC in overtime by a score of 37-33.

With ten players scoring points, the St. Stanislaus 8th Grade basketball team extended its unbeaten streak to eight games with a convincing 52-23 win over Pearl River Central in a game played in Carriere this past Monday.

The 9th Grade team suffered a close loss to PRC's 9th Grade 43-38.

Strong offensive and defensive rebounding combined with an aggressive defense were the key ingredients in the 8th Grade team's victory. PRC was never in the ballgame, as the Rocks led 16-3 at the end of the first quarter and 34-4 at the end of the half.

In the second half, Coach Chuck Genin played the remainder of his substitutes who played PRC's first team very close, being outscored by only a point in the second half, 19-18.

Leading the 8th Grade team in scoring were Sean Sewell with 17 points, followed by Shannon Garrett with 11 points. The playmaking and leadership ability of point-guard Greg Schruft continued to be a bright spot for the Rocks, as Schruft dished out eight assists during his playing time Monday.

For PRC's 8th Grade team, Will Montgomery led the Blue Devils with 14 points, 12 of which came in the second half.

In the 9th Grade contest, Coach Jerry Spell's Rockchaws played PRC even throughout the first three quarters, trailing only 26-24 going into the fourth quarter. But effective inside scoring by PRC's John Nixon, Bob Carroll, and Trent Jones provided the margin of difference for the Blue Devils.

Francisco Colon led the Rocks with 8 points, followed by Scott Heitzmann, Freddie Worstrom, and Jeff Battle who all had six points.

After the Christmas holidays, the Jr. High Rockchaw basketball teams resume action with a Jan. 9 game with Bay Jr. High at Bay High. Game time is set for 5 p.m.

SSC Varsity sweeps pair from Mercy Cross

Led by the 16-point efforts of both Jim Martin and John Keller, St. Stanislaus defeated the Mercy Cross Crusaders 54-39 in a game played Thursday night in the Mercy Cross gym in Biloxi.

The Rockchaws improved their season record to 4-5, winning three of their last four outings after a slow early season start. Their victory over Mercy Cross completed a series sweep over the Crusaders this season.

A major factor in the Rockchaw improvement has been the steady play of Jim Martin who has scored in double figures in his last five games. In the last two Rockchaw victories, Martin has hit for 16 points in each game.

Another pleasant surprise for Bro. Anton's Rockchaws has been the inside play of John Keller who came off the bench Thursday to add 16 points to the Rock total.

Playmaking guard YaSin Shabazz continued his consistent play with an 11-point effort against the Crusaders.

The Rocks took a 28-12 advantage into the dressing room at halftime, and the Crusaders could not catch SSC in the final half. Jo Jo Koonce of Mercy Cross was the game high scorer with 18 points.

In the preliminary Junior Varsity contest, the Rocks of Coach Rod Herring won easily by a score of 50-25. The scoring was evenly balanced as John Keller hit for 11 points in two quarters of play and Shine Sigworth added 10 points.

Next Monday the Rockchaws travel to Pearl River, La., to play the Red Rebels. The JV contest begins at 8:30 p.m., followed by the Varsity game at 8 p.m.

Davis Bayou Campground re-opens

The campground located in the Davis Bayou area of Gulf Islands National Seashore, Ocean Springs, has re-opened.

Superintendent Jerry A. Eubanks said the campground had been closed due to storm damage from Hurricane Elena, which struck Sept. 2.

"The large number of fallen or hanging trees and limbs caused by the storm presented a safety hazard for campers," said Eubanks.

In the months since the storm, maintenance areas and contractors have been working to remove fallen trees and limbs and to remove those tree limbs that were suspended above campsites and buildings.

"We were also able to resurface all of the road areas and camping pads in the campground during this closure period," said Eubanks.

The campground at Davis Bayou is open year round with 51 campsites, all equipped with electrical hookups. Sites cannot be reserved and are operated on a first-come, first-served basis.

Length of stay is limited to a maximum of 30 days per calendar year, with no more than 14 days during January through March.

All stays during a calendar year are counted toward these limits. The camping fee is $10 per campsite per night.

For more information on camping at the Davis Bayou area of Gulf Islands National Seashore, please call (601) 875-3962.

UNO's flag football a national attraction

The biggest game in town will be held at the University of New Orleans Dec. 28-31. Some 1,500 students, representing 117 teams from colleges and universities in 32 states will be participating in the seventh annual Sugar Bowl National Collegiate Flag Football Tournament.

Competition will be in three divisions: men's (72 teams); women's (38 teams) and co-rec (seven teams). The co-rec division, new this year, consists of teams composed equally of men and women.

Competition will be held on nine fields on UNO's main campus and three fields on the university's east campus from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Dec. 28-30, and beginning at 8 a.m. Dec. 31. Championship games will be held Dec. 31 on the Championship Field, across from the UNO Health and Physical Education Center, as follows: 11:45 a.m., co-rec; 1 p.m., women; and 2:15 p.m., men. Defending champions are UNO in the women's division and Southeastern Louisiana University in the men's division. Spectators are welcome at all games.

"We doubled our field for this year's tournament," says James "Jet" Smith, executive tournament director. "We were already one of the largest extramural events in the country so this is really exciting. We hope this will encourage every college to send a team in the future."

Smith says that in addition to receiving individual awards, the first place winning teams and runners-up in the three divisions will participate in the Parade of Champions and give an exhibition game at the New Orleans Superdome prior to the Sugar Bowl game, Jan. 1.

"During the past six years, this tournament has developed from an infant stage to a major extramural activity, involving intramural champions from schools around the nation," says Smith.

"Its success has been mainly due to the continued commitment, interest and support of the participating institutions and various category sponsors. In fact this year's major sponsors are the participants and the institutions they represent."

Category sponsors for 1985 are the Sugar Bowl (awards); Budweiser (official beverage); Kaepa (athletic shoes); Wilson (sports supplies); Accusplit (stop watches); and Delta Airlines (transportation).

DEER SEASON REMINDER

The Department of Wildlife Conservation wants deer hunters to know that they should leave their dogs at home when they go deer hunting on Dec. 21 and 22.

This will be a time when hunters will be after either-sex deer in many areas across the Magnolia State, and conservation officials say that hunting deer during this time with the aid of dogs is illegal.

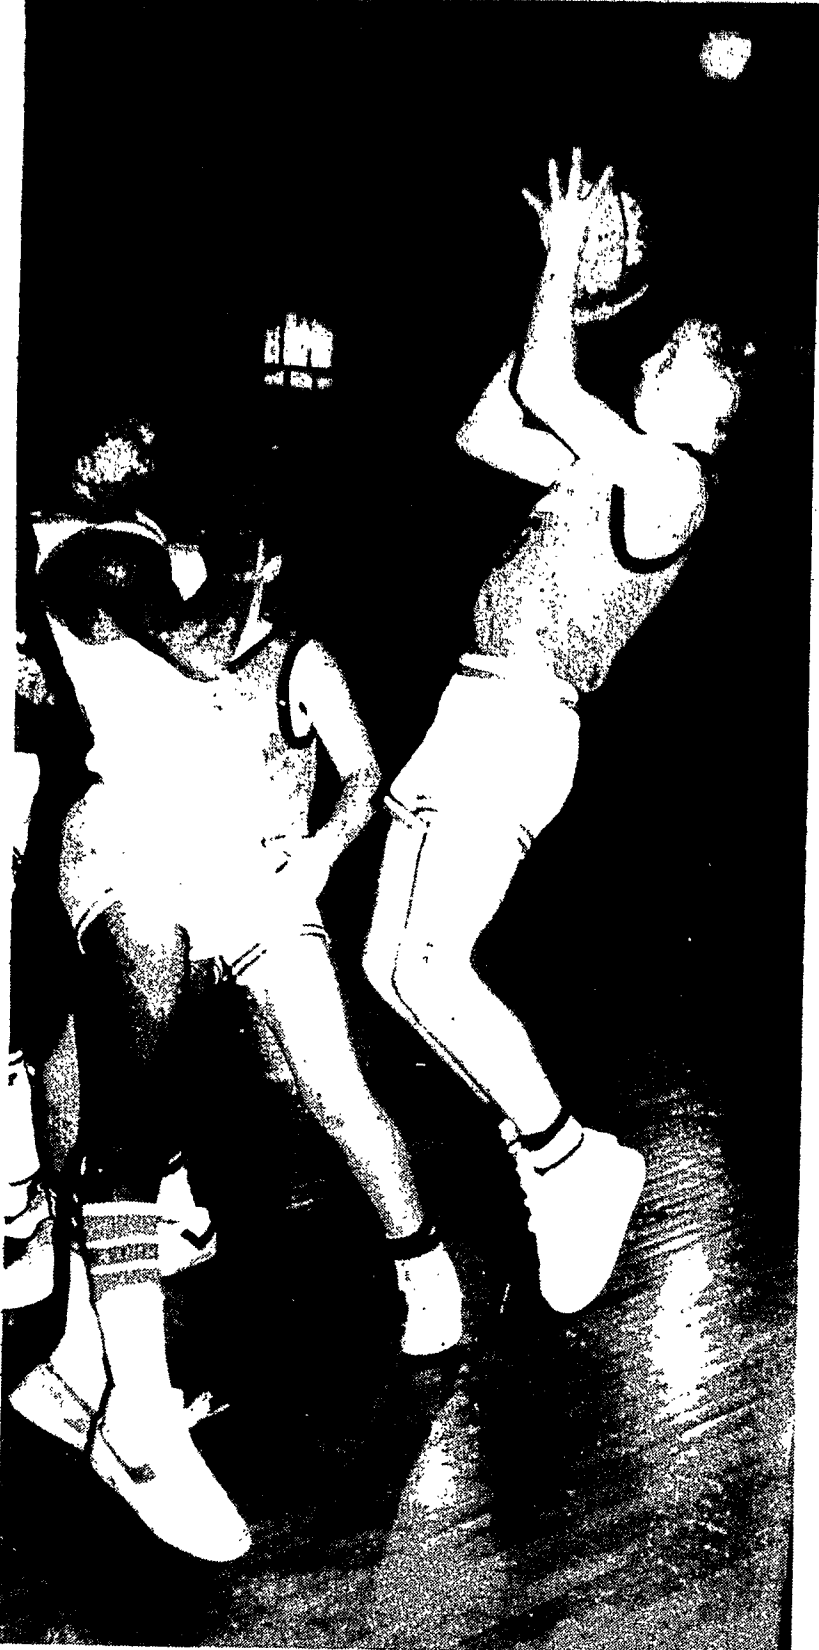

"In the past our officers have discovered some people were running their dogs, and they claimed to be hunting rabbits, fox, or coyotes," explained Philip Strong, chief of the agency's law enforcement division.

Strong said that it was impossible to tell if people were actually hunting rabbit or fox, or merely using the occasion to have their dogs in the woods to hunt deer.

A new regulation prohibits the running of rabbit, fox, raccoon, opossum, and coyote during the open either-sex deer seasons in December.

The regulation, however, does not apply to hunters using pointers, setters, or retrievers for upland game bird or waterfowl hunting.

Rock varsity and J.V. lose to Pearl River, La.

Pearl River, La. used the quickness and scoring ability of guard Jeff Hebert and the inside play of Terry Carter and Shaun Smith to defeat the visiting St. Stanislaus Rockchaws 67-56 in a game played in Pearl River, La. Monday evening.

For the Rockchaws, guard YaSin Shabazz had 19 points, and forward Tom Walton had 12 points. Jim Maxey contributed 10 points, followed by Jim Martin with eight points.

Pearl River led 20-13 at the end of the first quarter and took a 40-25 advantage into the dressing room at halftime. In the second half, the Rocks outscored the Red Rebels 31-27, but could not make up the 15 point first-half deficit.

St. Stanislaus now holds a 4-6 record, and is participating in the Ecole Classique tourney in Metairie this week.

Lady Pirates win fifth

The Lady Pirates defeated the Vancleave Bulldogs by a score of 44-22 in a Friday home game.

After a slow start, the team outscored Vancleave 9-2 in the second quarter and never trailed again in the game.

Kim Joseph led the Pirates in scoring with 20 points and in rebounding with 13.

Ouida Buchanan added eight points and seven rebounds.

Hope Bonney led the team in steals with seven and added eight points.

STONE COUNTY DEFEATS LADY PIRATES

On Monday, the Lady Pirates battled undefeated Stone County in Wiggins.

Stone led 16-14 at the end of the first quarter and steadily pulled away from the Lady Pirates in each of the last three quarters, winning 57-41.

Darlene Scarbough led the team with 22 points.

Hope Bonney led the Pirates in scoring with 18 points, and Kim Joseph added 15 points.

Angie Dubuison led the team in assists with six.

The Lady Pirates' next game is at home against Long Beach Jan. 6.

SPORT HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

GET FIT TO SKI (PART II)

Muscle strength is critical to getting back into skiing quickly and safely. Skiing requires power, strength and stamina and weight training can develop each of these areas. With weight training you want to use enough weight so an exercise can be done 8 to 12 times or repetitions for three sets. When 12 reps can be done it is time to add more weight. Work out every other day in order to give your body a chance to recover between exercise sessions. Whether working out on a machine or with free weights, be sure to obtain proper instruction and follow all safety precautions. Use a partner to help you if you are using free weights.

Some basic exercises are listed that will help you to strengthen the muscles that will be the primary ones used during skiing. Leg presses give the calves and thighs more power, squats also work these muscles as well as the buttocks. Some variations to these exercises would be to turn the toes in or out on the leg press and have the feet together or far apart on the squats. Another variation that simulates the skiing motion is to keep the feet parallel, but turn them to the right then to the left between each repetition. This next exercise requires a special bench or machine, but is valuable in strengthening the thighs and hamstrings (back of the leg), and can help prevent knee injuries. The exercises are called leg extensions (for the thighs) and leg curls (for the hamstrings).

To help improve back and upper body strength, which helps in control of the skiing stance, motion and recover, bent over rolls or seated rolls are recommended. The triceps (muscles in the back of the upper arm), which play an important role in pole plant are best strengthened by specific exercises like French curls, push-ups or tricep pull-downs.

Strong abdominal muscles are necessary for maintaining balance, holding the basic stance on skis.

These specific exercises, in addition to the solid base of aerobics you have maintained through the off season should make your first days back on the slopes injury free and fun. Ski patrol statistics show that most injuries occur to people on their first day back to skiing. Though you will be enthused about skiing again, go easy the first day. Reacquaint yourself with the timing and coordination of skiing; get a feel for the skis, progress slowly and do not ski over your head.

Laboratory seeks reports on striped bass

For the second consecutive year, protozoan and bacterial infections have plagued young fish being raised for the Mississippi-Alabama Cooperative Striped Bass Restoration Program at the Claude Petet Mariculture Center (CPMC) at Gulf Shores, Ala.

Last year, only about 12,000 striped bass were available for tagging in Mississippi and Alabama coastal waters after infections struck the CPMC ponds, according to fisheries biologist Larry Nicholson, striped bass project leader at Gulf Coast Research Laboratory (GCRL) in Ocean Springs.

This year, when similar conditions threatened the ponds, thousands of surviving fish were tagged and released almost two months ahead of schedule in an attempt to avoid the infestation which led to high mortality rates last year.

"We know that if we didn't try to get them out, we might lose all of them," said Nicholson. "By tagging these fish early, we were dealing with warmer water and smaller, younger fish, which created a stressful situation. The early tagging and handling led to a 5 1/2 percent mortality rate for the tagged fish."

In early October, almost 7,700 tagged striped bass were released into Mississippi's Fort Bayou and Tchoutacabouffa River, while another 9,100 fish were stocked in Alabama streams.

Approximately 2,000 additional striped bass will be tagged at CPMC on Nov. 5 as part of the third year of the two-state project sponsored by the National Marine Fisheries and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

When this year's project began in mid-April with the transfer of about 500,000 day-old striped bass from the Alabama State Fish Hatchery at Marion, Ala. to GCRL's semi-closed intensive culture system, Nicholson had been hopeful that a large percentage of the fish would reach stocking size for the program. Approximately 66,000 young fish were transferred from GCRL to the CPMC ponds in early June.

In addition to the tagging program, GCRL personnel assisted officials from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's National Fish Hatchery in Carbon Hill, Ala. in releasing about 31,000 fingerlings, approximately 4 to 6 inches in length, into Mississippi's Jourdan River during September and October.

Nicholson noted that the Laboratory continues to receive many calls reporting striped bass catches. He stressed the importance of continued input from sport fishermen in evaluating the stocking program and its benefits to the area.

Fishermen catching striped bass whether tagged or not, are asked to call GCRL collect at (801) 875-2244 to relay information concerning length, weight and condition of the fish, where and how the catch was made, and identification number of the fish was tagged.

Your Pet's Health

By Clyde E. Taylor, DVM
Cooperative
Extension Service

One of the most common complaints in our practice is tapeworms in the client's cat or dog.

Until the advent of new dewormers, tapeworms had traditionally been considered the least harmful of the intestinal parasites, but one of the most difficult to remove from the cat or dog.

Tapeworm infestations of cats and dogs are commonly diagnosed by the owner, who observes tapeworm segments in the perianal area, on bedding or on fresh feces. Signs of tapeworm infestation can be perianal itching, ("scooting"), abdominal cramps, vomiting, diarrhea and excessive gas production.

It is important to keep in mind that an intermediate host is required in the tapeworm disease, usually the flea. The intermediate host is the one that harbors the larval form of the parasite. The dog or cat is usually the definitive host, that is, the animal in which the adult stage of the parasite is found.

Tapeworms no longer difficult to remove

Prevention of tapeworm infection can be readily accomplished by the control of the intermediate host. A strict course of flea control must be instituted. This control must include the dog or cat, the house and the yard.

It is recommended that a component exterminator be consulted to exterminate fleas from the premises. After the pet has been treated for the tapeworm infection, the tapeworm segments should be washed from the animal and the bedding should be cleaned as part of the control program.

There are new drugs on the market for treatment of tapeworms in your dog or cat. Consult with your veterinarian for an effective control, prevention and treatment program.

EARLY RELEASE—Biologist Larry Nicholson of Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs prepares a striped bass for tagging as part of the Mississippi-Alabama Cooperative Striped Bass Program.

Reed named in U.S. Senate Scholarship program

Suzette Reed, a junior at Pass Christian High School, has been selected to represent the school in the Japan-U.S. Senate Scholarship Program.

As the school's nominee, she will compete with other Mississippi students for the two scholarship appointments to be named by U.S. Senators.

This unique student exchange program, funded by the government of Japan, stresses the family living experience and provides the winning student with a two-month stay with a volunteer Japanese family.

Reed is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Engler. She has consistently been on the Superintendent's Honor Roll and is a Beta Club member.

She holds membership in the French Club, Science Club and the Future Homemakers of America. She has been class president, a member of the Quiz Bowl Team and homecoming maid.

She received the Physical Education Award in ninth grade and the Geometry Award in tenth grade. She is a member of St. Paul's CYO.

Youth Brief

CHRISTMAS MURAL
Eighth grade students at Pass Christian Middle School have been treated to a Christmas mural in their English classroom.

The mural was designed and executed by three students, Duane McArthur, Do Nguyen and Phouc Tran.

The students used colored chalk to create a variety of textural qualities in a traditional Christmas scene.

USM to host continuing education institute

College and university educators from across the South will gather on the Mississippi Gulf Coast Feb. 3-7 for the 1986 Institute for Continuing Education.

The University of Southern Mississippi will host the 1986 event at the Biloxi Hilton and the Gulf Park Regional Campus at Long Beach. USM also will host the 1987 event.

The institute, hosted in earlier years by Memphis State University and the University of Virginia, is designed as a program of professional development for continuing educators and others interested in continuing education. This year's program has been structured to meet the needs of newcomers, experienced professionals and top executives in continuing education.

Nationally prominent speakers will include Dr. Fred Davison, president of the University of Georgia; Dr. Badi Foster, president of the Aetna Corporate Institute for Education; and Dr. Arlon Estler, program director for the Kellogg Foundation.

Local speakers will include Dr. Gene Tinnon, dean of the USM Division of Lifelong Education; Dr. Joe Holloway, dean of the USM Gulf Park Regional Campus; and Dr. Walter Cooper, dean of the USM School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

ETV Brief

AUSTIN LIMITS

Juice Newton and Mark Gray, a former resident of Jackson, are the headliners on "Austin City Limits" at 9 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 21, on Mississippi ETV.

Mark Gary co-wrote the songs "It Ain't Easy Being Easy" for Janie Fricke; "Take Me Down" for Alabama; and "Nice Girls" for Melissa Manchester. He has worked with the Oak Ridge Boys and also was a member of the band "Exile." His solo interests have led to the successful single, "Wounded Hearts."

NOMINEE— Bay-Waveland Chapter, Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., has nominated Sandra Engelbrach of Waveland for Young Career Woman 1985. BPW has 150,000 members in 3,500 chapters belonging to 53 state federations. The Young Career Woman Program is BPW/USA's way of recognizing the accomplishments of successful young women on the local district and state levels. The local sponsoring chapter assumes financial responsibility for the candidate. To be eligible she must be between 21 and 30, employed in her career area over one year, be outstanding in her work or in community service, work or live in the area served by the state federation she represents, and must support the goals and objectives of BPW/USA. Ms. Engelbrach graduated from Loyola University with a BA in visual art and is self-employed, creating silk screened collages and paintings. She has executed commissions for Tenneco Oil Company as well as several private clients. Her work has been shown in juried shows and she has been artist-in-residence for BPW-New Orleans and is a charter member of the Jefferson Performing Arts Society. Ms. Engelbrach is active in Girl Scouting and in the Methodist Church.

The annual event is sponsored by Region III of the National University Continuing Education Association. The region includes Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Florida, Texas, Arkansas, South Carolina, North Carolina, Kentucky and Virginia.

Principles of intercollegiate athletics crumbling, new system needed

REPLACING AMATEURISM

By Michael Harrington

Department of Philosophy & Religion
University of Mississippi

(The following article resulted from a grant from the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities to the Mississippi Press Association.)

Part Two of a two-part series.
That the real cause of the crisis in college athletics is the death of the amateur ideal was explained in an earlier article. Remaining is the obvious question: What should replace amateurism?

The credo of professional sports is a possibility: "play for pay." The professional game can be an exhibition of beauty and skill demonstrating that athletes can perfect their skills while drawing salaries.

Yet the hold-outs, the strikes, the interminable squabbles over money have become as much a part of the sports scene as the new records sought.

What amateurism feared has come to pass: the real goal has become material wealth instead of athletic excellence.

What then? In searching for a new beginning, start with what was valuable in the old. Amateurism had two sound elements: the pursuit of excellence and a limited opportunity to excel.

Pursuing excellence is a self-evident virtue. Properly directed, it includes lesser values, e.g., the will to win, the desire for fame and fortune.

Professional sports made avocations into vocations and so made achievement more readily attainable by the pro. But their becoming vehicles for money-making reduced excellence from an end to a mere means for material gain.

Traditional amateurism did restrict equal access by effectively closing sports to the poor and socially disadvantaged. But once these barriers were overcome, the opportunity to excel was limited only by ability. College teams permitting walk-ons continue in this tradition.

Professional sports also limit access by acting as virtual monopolies. Leagues such as the NFL restrict the number of franchises and thereby limit the number of players. Player drafts and limited free agency also restrict competition to protect monopolies.

Compare this with the European system of soccer leagues encouraging competition by many towns at many levels. It is hard to escape the conclusion that American professionalism and amateurism alike limit as much as they advance equal access to athletic achievement.

But the valuable in amateurism can be combined with the best of professionalism to create a new ideal: "the democratic pursuit of athletic excellence."

The challenge would be to use democratic principles to reorganize sports competition to make it open to all according to free market principles.

Its goal would be creation of a means to provide maximum access to athletic excellence, country wide in each relevant sport, in such ways as are economically feasible. Its success will come when any town can organize a team to play others of its means, when any athlete can try out, and their advancement comes solely on the basis of ability.

Realizing this democratic ideal might change drastically both professional and amateur athletics. Athletic competition would have to be restructured to permit the formation and interaction of many new leagues and championship series.

But once football and baseball, for instance, surrender their present monopolies, anti-trust regulations could be suspended for the new organization in view of the improvement in both the equality and quality of sports life.

Whether schools are the proper place for free market athletic excellence is an open question. Developing the life of the mind is their present function.

Adding the perfection of the body might not be in the best national interest, since every other civilized nation separates sports from education to preserve the integrity of both.

Western Europe, Japan, and the Soviet Union may be surpassing us in academic excellence. Perhaps eliminating athletics in academics might best serve our national interests as well.

Athletic competition outside education might free high schools as well as colleges from the burden of providing both education and athletic entertainment to its clientele.

Students in impoverished states such as Mississippi, minorities from poverty-stricken backgrounds, especially might benefit from having academics again the center of their schooling experience. Requiring a high school degree or the equivalent for local competition might further serve the cause of learning.

But education could be restructured to provide athletic excellence in a democratic free market. For instance, athletes would no longer have to be students; they could be regular employees or walk-ins instead.

Athletic funding would have to be drastically increased.

But the issues presently causing so much concern — minimum standards, illegal recruiting, living expenses — would all become economic problems resolved by the schools and their supporters in free market competition.

There would be many problems. American education might all but collapse under the staggering burden of having to provide education, entertainment, and athletic excellence to its people.

At the least, many schools would find the new system too expensive and so new organizations would have to be formed to take their places.

Predictably in opposition to such democratic reunion would be the NCAA, the current professional leagues, and the entertainment networks presently benefitting from the present crisis in athletic competition.

But the fact remains that amateurism is dead and the concept underlying intercollegiate athletics rots. The professional principle is too corruptive to save the situation.

Their valuable elements might be saved in a new free market, democratic pursuit of athletic achievement. But they may be lost unless excellence is rebuilt on the more secure foundation of a new ideal expressing the best in American athletics.

Christmas

Pass students exhibit art

The Pass Christian Middle School recently exhibited art work at the Hancock Bank Annex in Pass Christian.

The exhibit was a part of the "Christmas At The Pass" celebration sponsored by the "Harbor Village Merchants of Pass Christian."

Students displaying art work included Shawn Dedaux, Jeannie Cuevas, Dena Dedaux, Don Batiste, Tam Nguyen, Do Nguyen, Nolan Brown, Regina Waldrop, Christine Brown, Hai Mai, and Marvin Cerrato.

Also exhibiting were Carmel Martin, Loan Craig, Joe Jones, Duane McArthur, Scott Ulrich, Troy DeSandro, Doung Nguyen, Hong Hong, Dean Alley, Toni Martin, Delton Lizana, Bernard Davis, Ben Robinson, Marty Moran, and Kelly O'Neal.

Other students exhibiting included Burnell Dedaux, An Nguyen, Michelle Pustay, Suzanne Riddle, Emily Lizana, Hanslize Cook, and Terry Ladner.
Art work included large paintings in mixed media and tempera of local scenes as well as Charcoal, Pencil, and Pen-and-Ink drawings.

On Saturday, Dec. 7, the seventh and eighth grade art students visited Shearwater Pottery and Walter Anderson's house, viewing many works of art by the Anderson family and by Walter Anderson.

The students visited the Ocean Springs Community Center to study the Murals of Walter Anderson.

Next stop was the Gulf Islands National Seashore.

Guests included Mrs. Etta Broome, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Heiderhoff. The Art Teacher is Mrs. Elizabeth Beasnett.

Military Mention

SEAMAN FRILLOUX

Navy Seaman Recruit Edward E. Friloux, son of Lois F. and Edward E. Friloux Sr. of Route 7, Bay St. Louis, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During Friloux's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Friloux's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

CITATION OF MERIT—Jimmy Lolacano, left, of Bay St. Louis, receives a sustained high performance citation from Supervisor R. C. McLachlan at Martin Marietta's Michoud Aerospace facility in New Orleans East. Lolacano, a planning and control photographer at Michoud, was cited for his efforts in producing more than 5,000 photographs of some 19 space shuttle external tanks constructed at Michoud during the past two years.

A citation accompanying the plaque reads in part that Lolacano's "...continuing high performance has contributed significantly to the superior documentation being delivered to NASA and to the success of the external tank program. He is a credit to himself, to Michoud aerospace and the External Tank Program." (Martin Marietta photo)

These folks are raising your insurance premiums.

IT'S TIME YOU PUT

A STOP TO IT

If you have liability insurance... on your car, your business, your home, anything... you are paying higher and higher insurance premiums. Why? One of the major reasons is some lawyers are convincing juries to award "punitive damages" of astronomical sums of money in injury cases.

Punitive damages are additional sums of money beyond the actual loss that are awarded to a plaintiff (one who sues someone else) in order to punish a defendant (the person being sued) for a negligent or wrongful act. Trial lawyers say that punitive damages help deter others from committing the same wrong act. The jury's still out on that point. What's certain is that a significant share of punitive damages money goes not to the plaintiff but to cover attorney fees and court costs.

Who pays for these enormous punitive damages? It's you, of course, as one of the thousands of Mississippians who pay insurance premiums to protect yourself. When an insurance company is told to pay $8 million in punitive damages due to a clerical error on a $20,000 insurance policy (as in a recent Jackson County case), your premiums go up! The company cannot pay an $8 million verdict on premiums figured for a $20,000 policy. The cost of that $8 million will be borne by the company's customers in the form of higher premiums. This is something you can put a stop to. If this sort of legal abuse keeps up, you may not be able to buy liability insurance at any price in the future. Ask your friends who run a child care center, or ask your doctor. While plaintiff attorneys press for large settlements, it's the juries who actually award them. We respect the jury system—it's the American Way. But, a persuasive attorney can make a jury feel undue sympathy for the plaintiff. Ignoring common sense, the jury then gives away money based on emotion, not facts.

How can you put a stop to it?

1. When you are selected for jury duty, don't let your emotions cloud the truth. Base your decision on the facts of the case. Make awards relevant to the damages.

2. Tell your legislator you are tired of higher insurance premiums caused by punitive damages. Remember, punitive damages are in addition to the amount given to the plaintiff for his actual losses.

The Mississippi Legislature can join the many other states in curbing the skyward trend of punitive damages settlements and the subsequent rise in insurance premiums. Legislation will be introduced during the next session to help solve the problem of outlandish punitive damages. You're the one paying for these damages. And you can affect punitive damages legislation in a positive way. Contact your legislator and tell him of your concern.

Right now, it's the best thing you can do.

Piney Woods history volume published

"Lower Pearl River's Piney Woods: Its Land and People," a 227-page illustrated history of this Southwest Mississippi area, has been published by the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at The University of Mississippi and is being offered for sale in time for Christmas giving.

The L.O. Crosby Jr. Memorial Foundation of Picaune provided research funds for the volume which was written by John Hawkins Napier III of Montgomery County, Ala., a retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force. Seven generations of his family are buried in and around Picaune and the book resulted from his lifelong interest in the area and its people.

The hardcover book is published by exacting quality standards, said Center Director William Ferris. This includes top-quality paper, typography and printing. It features numerous historical photographs and illustrations rendered in sepia tone. The volume sells for $50 and may be obtained by writing: The Center for the Study of Southern Culture, University, MS 38677. Mail orders should include $2 for postage and handling. The book is also available at the Crosby Arboretum.

"This book is not a family history, a company history, nor an industrial history," said Col. Napier, "but an account of a place and a people that came to be bound up with the rise and fall of a particular industry and with the leadership of the prominent families of that place."

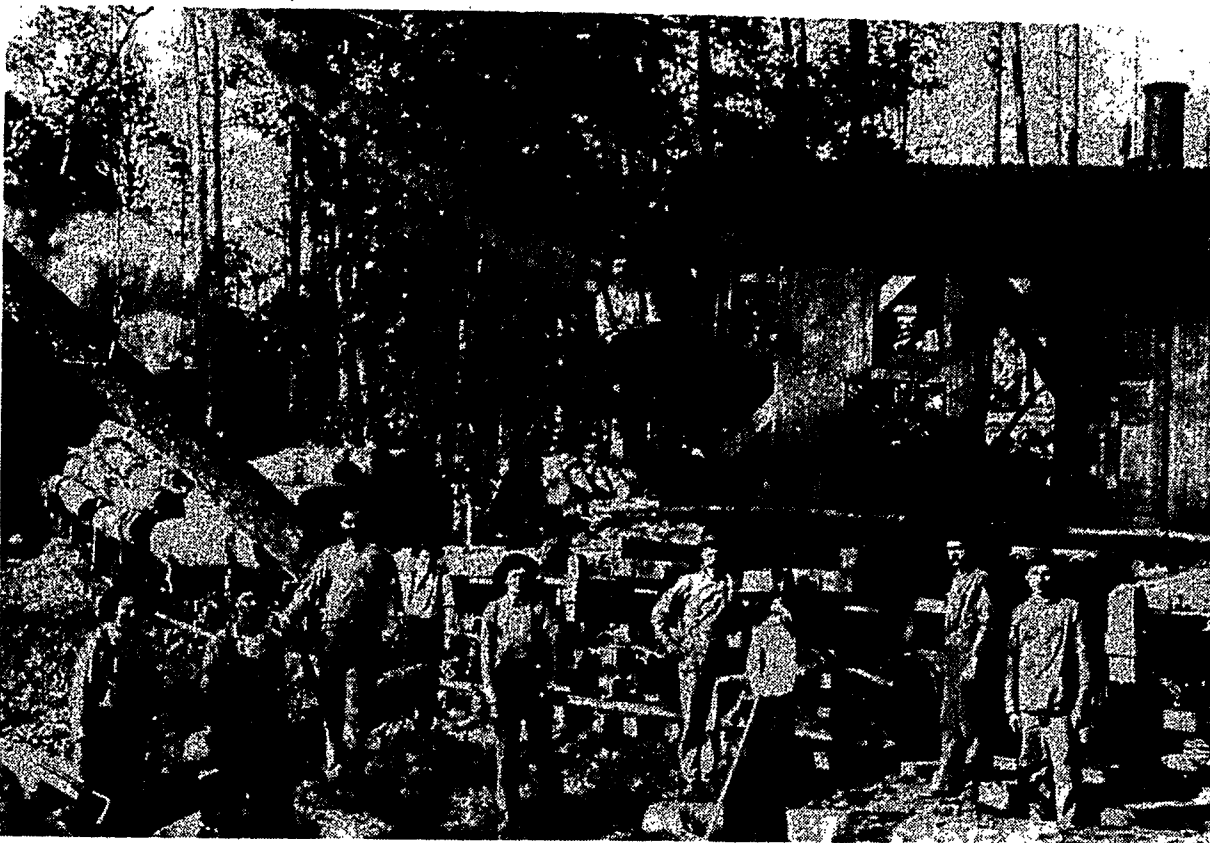

His design, he said, was to "portray one South Mississippi Section in historical terms, as, more famously, another section in north Mississippi has been treated in fiction."

Napier said he attempts to write with "a sense of place," beginning with the formation of the land in prehistoric times and bringing it through the centuries to the present day, much of it related to the area's rich timber resources. The history ends as the area was being reshaped after the devastating hurricane Camille in 1969 damaged the timber industry and dealt a fatal blow to the remaining tung oil tree orchards.

"This little corner of the South mirrors a problem about which thoughtful Southerners worry: how do we embrace the benefits of modern society without surrendering our identity and our old bonds of place, blood, religion, custom, tradition, valor and memory?" Napier asks. "If we are swalled up by modernity, perhaps this history will give some idea at least of 'the way we were' to afford posterity a glimpse of the wellsprings of Pearl River culture."

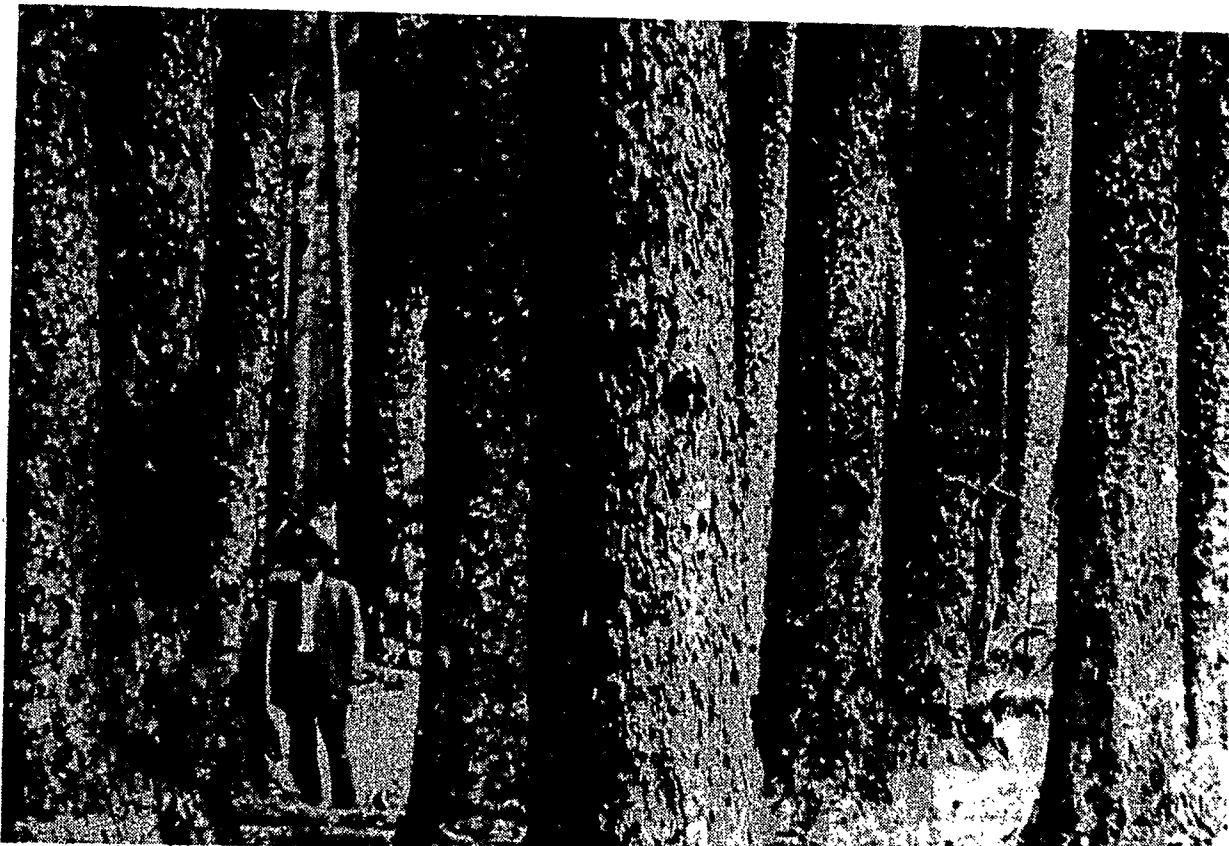

The author earned a bachelor's degree in history at Ole Miss in 1949 after World War II military service in the Pacific and Japan. During that same year, he was the founding editor of American Tung News and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force. He has also served in the Korean War, the occupation of Germany and in Vietnam. He has received the Legion of Merit and 16 other military awards and decorations.

Napier has published a number of historical articles including 57 pieces on the history of Pearl River County in the Picaune Item newspaper. He is past president of both the Alabama Historical Society and the Old South Historical Society.

LOWER PEARL—A timber crew in the 1920s poses in front of a loading crane in one of more than 200 historical photographs in the new history book "Lower Pearl River's Piney Woods" by John Hawkins Napier. The book is published by the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at The University of Mississippi.

PINEY WOODS—Huge pine trees in the lower Pearl River basin are pictured in the new history book "Lower Pearl River's Piney Woods" by John Hawkins Napier III, published by the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at The University of Mississippi. The hardcover book includes more than 200 historical photographs and illustrations of the region.

LOW BACK PAIN

If back pains are a way of life for you, the reasons can be varied and complex. Some may be pathological, but very often the cause is muscles which are either over or under-exercised which are producing spinal distortion. Vertebrae slip into abnormal positions, resulting in "pinched" and irritated nerves, which cause pain and even loss of function of the affected body part. Poor posture, or even emotional tension, can be the root cause.

Special Christmas present could be gift certificate for education

Looking for a special gift for that special someone? Gulf Coast Research Laboratory is offering gift certificates to cover the cost of non-credit marine science mini-courses for adults at the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

The gift certificates, which cost $20, may be used by the recipient for any of the 12 classes scheduled through May 1984. Students must pre-register at the MEC, and 15 students are required for a class to be taught.

During January, the two classes will be "Flora and Fauna of Mississippi's Barrier Islands" with Dr. Edwin Calkins and "Aquarium Set-Up and Maintenance" with Gerald C. Corcoran.

Dr. Calkins, head of the laboratory's oyster biology section, will teach his class on four consecutive Tuesday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning on Jan. 7. The course will familiarize participants with important plant and animal components of the islands, and will cover coastal barrier ecosystems, their effects on animal and plant communities, and how these ecosystems are affected by human activities.

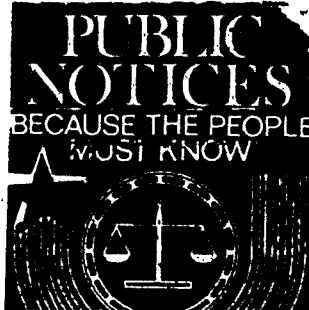

Corcoran, curator of the MEC, will conduct his class on four consecutive Thursday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning on Jan. 9. Basics of freshwater and saltwater aquarium set-up will be covered, including species selection, habitat construction and stocking. Participants will learn the importance of chemical testing in aquarium maintenance and will learn how to perform and interpret these tests.

February courses will be "Sharks" and "Shores of the Sea - Their History, Their Hazards and Bounty." In March, "Fishes of the Mississippi Sound" and "Plovers and Sandpipers of the Gulf Coast" will be offered.

In April, the schedule includes "Alternate Methods of Recreational Fishing," "Living Together in the Sea" and "Sea, Swell, Surf and Tides." May's three courses are "Coastal Meteorology," "Sex in the Sea" and "Biology of the Sea Bottom."

Interested persons are asked to contact the MEC at 374-5550 for further information.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, will receive sealed bids to be filed with the Clerk of this Board on or before 10:00 a.m. Monday, January 9, 1984, for furnishing to Hancock County the following listed materials or services for the period beginning at the date of acceptance of said bid until December 31, 1986, the following, to-wit:

1. Gasoline - regular and premium (specify with certificate of attached amount of octane in each) lubricating oil, Number Two (No. 2) diesel fuel, greases, to be delivered as and when needed to county owned vehicles at points designated by the Board (prospective bidders are cautioned to bid a stable price for the period on this merchandise, or an alternate bid may be made quoting tank wagon prices at time of delivery with given discount).
2. Tires and tubes, including those for automotive trucks and trailers, road grading machines and others. Bid must be based on furnishing first grade or first line tires and tubes, to be delivered to points designated in Hancock County by this Board.
3. Grader blades, parts for road machines, and related merchandise.
4. Gravel, all sizes, sand, clay soil, dirt fill, red shells, other shells, clam shells (prospective bidders shall state delivery prices and pit prices or either).
5. Cement, by the sack, and ready mix concrete, Classes AA, A, B, C and D (to be delivered on four (4) hours notice (failure to comply with this requirement will be cause for the right to cancel the contract), to meet highway specifications, by the cubic yard delivered as and when needed to points designated in Hancock County, also reinforced concrete, in steel, including matting, half inch and three-quarter inch round.
6. Bridge timbers, all sizes, oak, pine and cypress, both treated and untreated, also creosoted pilings, all sizes, per lineal foot, up to 65 feet (specifications on file with the County Engineer).
7. Cold mix and hot mix asphalt to meet highway specifications, delivered FOB Bay St. Louis, Miss.; also plant products, such as Asphalt, MCSE Asphalt Prime, also slag carload lots FOB Bay St. Louis, Miss.
8. Precast bridge slabs, caps, rails, posts and filler blocks.
9. Newspapers, bids for publishing proceedings of the Board of Supervisors and all legal notices for the County as required by law.
10. Banks, bids for the privilege of keeping the county funds collected by the Tax Assessor-Collector, and other public funds of Hancock County for the year 1986.
11. For providing exterminator services for the Courthouse, Courthouse Annex, Jail, Detention and County Home, Agricultural Building and County Board Building for the period beginning at the date of acceptance of said bid until December 31, 1986. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Special Christmas present could be gift certificate for education

Looking for a special gift for that special someone? Gulf Coast Research Laboratory is offering gift certificates to cover the cost of non-credit marine science mini-courses for adults at the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

The gift certificates, which cost $20, may be used by the recipient for any of the 12 classes scheduled through May 1986. Students must pre-register at the MEC, and 15 students are required for a class to be taught.

During January, the two classes will be "Flora and Fauna of Mississippi's Barrier Islands" with Dr. Edwin Calk and "Aquarium Set-Up and Maintenance" with Gerald C. Corcoran.

Dr. Calk, head of the laboratory's oyster biology section, will teach his class on four consecutive Tuesday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning on Jan. 7. The course will familiarize participants with important plant and animal components of the islands, and will cover coastal barrier ecosystems, their effects on animal and plant communities, and how these ecosystems are affected by human activities.

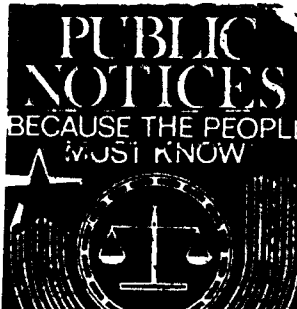

Corcoran, curator of the MEC, will conduct his class on four consecutive Thursday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning on Jan. 9. Basics of freshwater and saltwater aquarium set-up will be covered, including species selection, habitat construction and stocking. Participants will learn the importance of chemical testing in aquarium maintenance and will learn how to perform and interpret these tests.

February courses will be "Sharks" and "Shores of the Sea—Their History, Their Hazards and Bounty." In March, "Fishes of the Mississippi Sound" and "Plovers and Sandpipers of the Gulf Coast" will be offered.

In April, the schedule includes "Alternate Methods of Recreational Fishing," "Living Together in the Sea" and "Sea, Swell, Surf and Tides." May's three courses are "Coastal Meteorology," "Sex in the Sea" and "Biology of the Sea Bottom."

Interested persons are asked to contact the MEC at 374-5550 for further information.

Essay to be added to GED test requirements

For the first time since the General Educational Development (GED) testing program began during World War II, students pursuing a high school equivalency credential - a GED diploma - will have to write an essay as part of the GED test.

The writing exercise will be added to the test in 1988, according to the American Council on Education's Commission on Educational Credit and Credentials which administers the program.

Citing the addition as a "momentous decision that responds to concerns throughout education about students' communication skills" the commission acted unanimously to approve the requirement.

Richard Swartz, project director for the research on the GED essay, said the writing exercise was added "to more closely reflect high school curricular," which are increasingly requiring writing proficiency for high school graduation.

In addition, he said, "An essay exercise measures writing more comprehensively than do the current multiple choice questions."

The addition of the essay also is expected to have a dramatic impact on adult education courses, which have traditionally taught grammar and drill in the name of writing skills, the commission said.

Swartz said the writing exercise will prompt the addition of essay writing to the adult education programs taken by most people preparing for the test.

"Our studies indicated that few of the sample examinees had sufficient essay writing skills," he said. "We expect that they will have had some instruction in essay writing by the time the essay is added to the GED test."

The GED test, which was taken by more than 700,000 people last year, enables adults who did not complete a regular high school curriculum to earn a high school equivalency diploma or certificate. The test measures skills in social studies, science, reading, and mathematics, in addition to writing.

Currently, the writing skills test includes 80 multiple choice questions in spelling, capitalization and punctuation, usage, sentence structure, and logic and organization. Those questions, however, measure writing only indirectly by focusing on usage and editing skills rather than on composition skills, according to the commission.

In 1988, the test will include a multiple choice test on sentence structure and usage and a 45-minute essay-writing exercise. Several states, however, have indicated a desire to begin using the writing exercise earlier to reinforce the message that effective writing is a necessary skill for high school graduates.

Examinees will have to write a composition in response to a single topic that asks them to state a position and defend it or to analyze an issue. The topics will not require any specialized knowledge but will cover subjects people would know enough about to write on.

One sample essay topic, for example, explains that "most people in America are very careful to keep their houses and cars neat and clean, yet our city streets, our highways, and our parks are frequently covered with litter." The question is: "Explain why people litter. Be sure to support your views with specific reasons, details, and examples."

The essays will be scored by two different trained readers, using a six-point scale. If the two readers' scores differ by more than one point, the essay must be scored by a third reader. The essay score will be the total of the two readers' ratings and will be combined with the multiple choice score for a composite measure of writing skills.

Bay High students simulate space travel

What's it like to encounter the force of 3-G's or walk on the moon at 1/6 the amount of Earth's gravity?

Recently, students from Bay Senior High in Bay St. Louis and Boyet Junior High in Slidell found out when they visited the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

Sponsoring this joint field trip were Jon Blanchette, science instructor at Bay High, and Rene C. Smith from the science department of Boyet.

"This tour of the space and rocket center served to enhance the science curriculum offered by our respective schools and gave the students a first-hand account of what we as a nation are doing to help all humankind," Blanchette reported.

Students were required to answer written questions as they viewed the exhibits and write a follow-up news story about their Huntsville trip.

The Marshall Space Flight Center, the world's largest space museum, is a sprawling complex that encourages even the casual visitor to become an astronaut for a day.

Teachers give the Huntsville space center high marks for its emphasis on exhibits that challenge and encourage school children. More than 60 exhibits are action-oriented from a cell jar that demonstrates the action-reaction principle of rocket launches to a spectacular new Spacedome Theater that surrounds the view with smoke and steam during Space Shuttle launches.

A visit to the Space Museum would be incomplete without getting some sense of what it's like to be in space. The most breathtaking of the simulators is the Lunar Odyssey, a centrifugal theater that creates the feeling of 3 G's or triple gravity during launch.

But even that cannot properly prepare a visitor for the experience generated in the spectacular new Spacedome Theater. Equipped with the most advanced film projection system, the 280-seat chamber boasts a massive 6-channel sound system with 48 speakers behind the hemispherical dome screen.

This chamber is said to reproduce the sensation of flying so clearly that one often wants to grasp his seat. School groups have especially been impressed with the Spacedome.

Getting youngsters involved has never been a sideline of the museum, but is instead a primary emphasis. A plaque at the museum entrance states the purpose of the institution: "Dedicated...to the youth of America who will use the technology of space for the benefit of mankind."

Last opportunity for men turning 26 to register

The Selective Service System reaches an important milestone in the registration of young men on January 1, 1986.

Beginning on this date, men who were required in 1980 to register with Selective Service will be turning 26. Selective Service does not have the authority to accept registrations of men after they turn 26. Men who failed to register will have permanently forfeited their right to certain Federal student aid and job training benefits as well as Federal employment. Additionally, registration with Selective Service is a requirement in some states for various employment opportunities, such as law enforcement agencies and permission to practice law.

Men born in 1960 who have registered, will reach age 26 in 1986 and, under present law, will no longer be eligible for selection for induction. Over 15 million men, age 18

Pearl River College Spring registration set

Registration for the Pearl River College spring semester will begin Monday, Jan. 13, and continue through Tuesday, Jan. 14.

Registration will be held in the Academic Building according to a published alphabetical listing of freshmen, sophomore and transfer students. According to Dr. Willis Lott, director of admission, students may register after but not prior to the appointed time.

All students entering an academic or technical program must have an ACT score on file at Pearl River College prior to registering. There is no minimum score required for the ACT except for the associate degree in nursing and data processing programs.

Registration will close at 2:15 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 14, and late registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., Wednesday, Jan. 15. Students are allowed to change schedules through Tuesday, Jan. 21.

Saltillo names mission director Man of The Year

Fr. Patrick Quinn, director of the Catholic mission in Saltillo, Mexico sponsored by the Biloxi and Jackson Dioceses, has been named 'Man of The Year' by both the City of Saltillo and the Mexican State of Coahuila.

Fr. John O'Brien, pastor of St. Clare Catholic Church in Waveland, reports the honors accorded to Quinn are the highest civilian honors awarded in Coahuila, an area with a population of one million.

Quinn is expected to visit the Mississippi Gulf Coast in January, according to O'Brien.

The Saltillo mission is a special project of the Catholic Youth Organization in Mississippi and has been visited by many young people from this area.

Fall degree candidates listed

The following students are candidates for degrees at the conclusion of the 1985 fall semester.

Commencement exercises will be held May 16, 1986, in Humphrey Coliseum. There are approximately 920 applicants for degrees. They include Ms. Christine Tonya Favre, BS, education; Andrew L. Haas, BS, engineering; and Ms. Wendy Ann Staehle, BBA, business and industry, all of Bay St. Louis.

through 25, have registered with Selective Service since President Carter initiated registration in 1980.

Many of the men who are nonregistrants may be unaware of the requirement or do not understand the importance of the obligation to register. Some have served in the military but failed to register either before entering the Armed Forces or after leaving active duty. Others may have been incarcerated at the time of their 18th birthday and not realized they were required to register if released from custody to age 26.

Men age 18 to 25 who have not yet registered should register promptly to avoid prosecution and/or loss of benefits. Registration takes only five minutes at any post office. Failure to register is a felony, punishable by a fine of up to $250,000 and/or up to 5 years imprisonment.

Visits Bay and Waveland Posts

National Legion Commander concerned with Veterans benefits and Central America

Dale L. Renaud, National American Legion commander, of Bondurant, Iowa, was the featured speaker for the Bay and Waveland American Legion Posts Christmas parties.

He was at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis on Friday and at the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77, Waveland on Saturday.

Renaud was accompanied by George Delivorias, Mississippi Department commander; Floyd Dodd, Northern Area commander; Louis Sullivan, Central Area commander; Jack Doyle, Southern Area commander and member of Post 77; Fred Ingellis, National Executive committeeman; Dave Daldorf, Ninth District committeeman; and Ralph Godwin, past National vice-commander.

American Legion Auxiliary Department members also visited the two local posts with the national commander.

Renaud's address follows:

First of all, let me say how much of a pleasure it is for me to be with you today. Even though I'm still trying to get used to this title of national commander, I can honestly say that getting on the road and taking every opportunity to visit with as many legionnaires as I can is something I've looked forward to, and will continue to look forward to in the coming months.

The real pleasure of moments like these is in sharing with you—indeed, all legionnaires—a very warm and vigorous experience, where we can feel the rich mixture of the American Legion's strength, where we share the knowledge and reassurance that our organization will continue to march forward, and where you and I are filled with expectation, anticipation, enthusiasm, and with confidence.

The delegates to your 67th national convention have given me the honor of representing each of you, and I will fulfill my duties with every ounce of energy and ability I possess.

I am repeating that pledge because you are the ones to whom we must answer. It is your mandates we will work to see accomplished.

Today I would like to take a few moments to explain to you where we, as legionnaires, stand in two very critical areas; the first is foreign relations, the second is veterans affairs.

Now I know I don't have to tell any legionnaire the importance of these two issues, what I would like to tell you is where we stand on them at this time.

Let me first talk about foreign relations. One of the strongest beliefs we have is that never again should any generation of Americans have to face the terrible consequences of war. And to that end, the American Legion has had not only a keen interest in America's defense capabilities, but also the ability of our allies and neighbors to defend themselves, and progress peacefully along the road to democracy.

That is why, as a part of the American Legion's dedication to unity and peace, that I just recently returned from Guatemala, El Salvador and Costa Rica. My prime purpose during this visit was to add to a continuing evaluation of how effectively the United States is implementing the Jackson Plan of promoting democracy, development and security in the region.

Let me tell you why the Legion's national commander is for the third time making this trip.

Several years ago, we in the Legion noticed the potential threat to the Caribbean Basin and Central America posed by insurgency and by military adventurism by certain communist governments.

We created what we called our Western Hemisphere Task Force, which really emphasized the magnitude of our concern. We know that any problems which developed in the Caribbean Basin or Central America would not confine itself just to regional difficulties. They would affect every nation in this half of the world.

But, in keeping with our reputation of thoughtfulness, we didn't run around waving our arms with hysterical cries about how civilization as we know it was coming to an end.

No, we created the task force and sent its members to visit the area and told them to report on what they found and propose solutions as to how the United States could help.

Well, they made their report and came up with some specific recommendations. Briefly, they are:

—Long-term security and economic assistance to the area to provide internal security and stability to promote economic and social conditions conducive to the development of democratic governments.

—Cultural exchanges which promote an interchange of ideas.

—And, education programs to counter propaganda.

Now, keep in mind, this was five years ago. Well, when the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America was formed under the chairmanship of former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the American Legion National Commander at the time, Keith Kreul, testified, and I will note that he was the only Veterans organization leader to do so.

Eventually the commission released its findings, and, for the most part, they paralleled the legion's positions. President Reagan endorsed the commission's report, and what is in place now with the Jackson Plan, pretty much represents American Legion policy.

The latest development in the entire process was the adoption of a resolution earlier this year officially supporting the Jackson Plan and calling for the American Congress to full fund the program.

That, basically, is why I made the visit. I met with U.S. officials, host country officials, and discussed local viewpoints with legionnaires who resided in those countries.

The challenge now, as I see it, lies on two fronts:

First, the United States must continually re-affirm its commitment to effective implementation of the Jackson Plan. Congress, the Administration, and the American people must not falter in their support of Central American democracies.

On the other side of the coin, it is up to the nations we are helping to continue positive progress toward true democracy, internal stability, and social, economic and political justice.

The effort is a partnership, but members of the American Legion can help. We must continue to educate ourselves on Legion mandates, and continue to monitor the events in Central America. By keeping on top of the situation we will be better able to continue genuine improvement in the partnership effort.

The second area I would like to address concerns the area of Veterans affairs, and ladies and gentlemen, it is an area that concerns me to the highest degree and whose grave consequence could well become the end of an era of earned rights and benefits.

More than 28 million veterans depend on the American Legion's ability to do its job of advocating an adequate veterans benefits program. We have been charged by our founders with caring for our comrades and their dependents, and we will continue to do so.

Each of us must, however, bear in mind the undeniable relationship between our strength back home and our ability to protect those benefit programs.

We need not only our own voices joined in that effort, but we also need to support and encouragement of all Americans who, although they are not legionnaires, recognize us as responsible, serious citizens and share our concerns.

That can only be accomplished in places like Washington, D.C. and Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and yes, Bondurant, Iowa.

When we do our job in those places, and the thousands of other places like them around the country, then the national organization can take that success to our national leaders and translate it into effective support for those things we believe are right and necessary for America.

I can tell you, just as an example, that when I testified before the House and Senate Veterans Affairs Committees in October, I was received politely, listened to attentively, and treated fairly. I appreciate that, and I also know it doesn't necessarily mean a thing—unless... unless I have behind me the prestige of over 2.7 million interested, informed and involved Americans.

And we have them. Because we do, Congress will seriously consider our views on the need for innovative approaches to treating the elderly, on the need to upgrade veterans benefits, and many other legislative priorities.

But that's not all that happened as a result of my visit and testimony.

Today, I believe we of the American Legion are in the early stages of a battle which may prove to be among the most crucial we have ever faced, a battle that may equal those our founders fought in establishing the Veterans Administration, beating back the Economy Act of 1933, and fostering the G.I. Bill of Rights in 1944.

Those were no small undertakings; efforts made to establish or preserve the bitterly earned benefits of two generations of American veterans, and they were successful.

That, I believe, is the one point that sets the American Legion apart—not its effort alone, but its success, once the battle lines are formed and the positions staked out. The American Legion does not pick the fights, but we do not shrink from battle when what is right and just is threatened.

That is where I believe we stand today, toe to toe with those who, deliberately or unintentionally, by accident or by design, are embarked on a course which threatens the very core of our reason to exist: the system of earned benefits for America's veterans, and the special status we have conferred on ourselves by our service.

That is not just the opinion of Dale Renaud, national commander of the American Legion. It is an opinion that, by unanimous judgment of the Supreme Court of the United States of America, is part of the law of the land!

For those of you not familiar with that opinion, let me quote just a small part of it:

"Veterans have been obliged to drop their own affairs and take up the burdens of the nation, subjecting themselves to the mental and physical hazards as well as the economic and family detriments which are peculiar to military service and which do not exist in normal civil life."

"Our country has a long standing policy of compensating veterans for their past contributions by providing them with numerous advantages. This policy has always been deemed to be legitimate."

That opinion, handed down by Supreme Court Justice William Rehnquist in a landmark 1983 case, re-affirms the right of America's veterans, through organized efforts, to consult and confer with the government, to influence the course of public policy, and to be heard in the vital issues of the nation, while enjoying the fruits of a special status earned in service to the nation.

The American Legion takes the Supreme Court at its word. We are engaged now in a great struggle against forces which do not.

Last month, measures to require the Veterans Administration to implement a means test—in effect, a verifiable oath of poverty—and establish procedures for third-party reimbursement for services rendered, were approved by the House of Representatives and made a part of the 1986 Budget Reconciliation Bill.

The measures are just the tip of the iceberg and they can do to veterans health care what another iceberg did to the Titanic.

The lessons of history are clear: We cannot stand idly by as this threat ripens into a full assault. It shows signs of doing just that, because, as Congress moves inevitably toward the passage of some form of balance ed budget legislation, spending on veterans' benefits will bear a disproportionate share of the cuts necessary to bring the budget into line.

I urge you to become informed, and be aware of the effect of balanced budget amendments and legislation. As never before, the federal budget process poses a deadly threat to what the American Legion has worked so hard to preserve, and which so many of us fought so hard to protect.

The Senate's balanced budget amendment—the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Bill—would exempt only Social Security from austerity measures.

The House, with its own version, would exempt many other classes of domestic spending, including VA compensation and pension. While that appears at first glance to be an improvement, consider the real effect of such exclusions: spending cuts, triggered by the failure of Congress in future years to limit spending to pre-established targets, would come totally in the VA's discretionary budget area.

That, my fellow legionnaires, means the veterans health care system. That, my fellow legionnaires, means that a given percentage cut of the total VA budget, for each of the next five years or until the budget is balanced, would come from less than half of the VA budget. Five percent of the total, subtracted from about 40 percent of the dollars.

The effect would be disastrous! It is unacceptable. It is unfair. The Veterans Administration budget has actually declined, in terms of real dollars allocated, every year for the past ten years.

And yet, the level and quality of service has been maintained—due, in no small part, I might add, by the dedicated voluntary service our members provide in hospitals everywhere.

Any analysis of the spending trend for the VA, compared with all other agencies of government, shows that if they had operated with the same austerity and level of efficiency, there would be no budget deficit.

Yet, there are those who envy the veterans health care system and would have us bear even more of the burden.

I say, and the American Legion says, no more!

We have done our part. We have absorbed funding stagnation and seen the system perform, while the system of unearned benefits to all other segments of society has grown and grown and grown.

We do not oppose fiscal restraint. We encourage it. We do not ask that we be exempt.

We do ask, and will have nothing less, than that the belt-tightening be across-the-board, evenly imposed, and equally borne by all Americans. After all, we as veterans have demonstrated in no uncertain terms our willingness to sacrifice for our country.

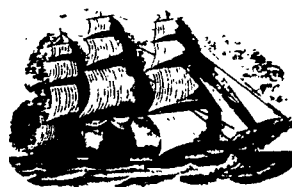

But we are not willing to sacrifice our comrades—our oldest, sickest and poorest comrades—in the name of a balanced budget. Let Congress make the hard choices, and we will go with them, but will not be their easy target.

Despite what the uninformed or the ill-intentioned in our society may think, we of the American Legion have a rich history of service and dedication to what is right and best for America. We fought for that, in battles here and abroad, in battles over territory and in battles over funding. We are not about to give up now.

You, as the men and women of the American Legion, have a vital role to play. As your national leadership signals the shift in our emphasis to this important battlefield, the communication lines will begin to hum, the activity in Washington will intensify, and you will be called upon to participate.

SPECIAL SERVICE—National American Legion Commander Dale Renaud's dinner is served by Jesse Burns, second vice-commander of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis at his visit to the local post.

The University of New Orleans Observatory is scheduled to be open for viewing Halley's Comet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, now through Dec. 23, from 7 to 11 p.m. The Observatory is located in the UNO Science building.

The Observatory will be closed Dec. 24 through Jan. 5 due to the holidays. It will reopen Jan. 6.

The Observatory is free and open to the public. Call 288-6711 for further information.

Italian-American Cultural Society plans dance

The Gulf Coast Italian American Society has completed preparations for the conduct of its ninth annual Notte di Natale (Christmas Night) dinner-dance to be held Sunday, Dec. 22 at the Gulfport Yacht Club.

The evening's activities include pre-dinner entertainment and cocktails beginning at 6:30 p.m.; followed by a full course dinner featuring Italian cuisine and wines; and dancing to the Port City Jazz Band. Various door prizes are planned throughout the evening. Tickets for this year's event are $20 and are available through society members only.

Additional table reservations and ticket information may be obtained by calling the society's president, Ginny Romano, at 896-6388, Gino Scialdone at 864-8282, or Wanda Stark at 896-4791.
